THE JASPER SOLUTION

Your Vehicle Repair Dilemma

When faced with the need for expensive repairs, you quickly review your options. A new car would be nice, but it will depreciate rapidly and brings a hefty payment and high ownership costs. A used vehicle may not cost quite as much but can come with hidden problems that will lead to expensive repair bills. If you buy junkyard components, you may save money on the purchase, but you may also buy parts that have suffered abuse and damage and will not serve you well at all. And rebuilt engines or transmissions can cost less, but the quality of the work may be inconsistent, and the parts may have only a minimum warranty.
